

RUMOR REPORTS $207,000.00 CUT IN U. B. C. APPROPRIATIONS

Threatened Government Cut May Force University of British Columbia to Close

Appropriation to be Reduced Over Fifty Percent—Students in Up-roar—Ask: "Do We Get Our Degrees?"—Vancouver "Sun" Flays Tolmie Government

Special to The Gateway

FLASH: Vancouver, B.C., January 14.—Threatened cut in government grants to university arouses opposition of students here. Government proposes abolishment of certain departments. Rumors that university must close down. Students ask: "Are we going to get our degrees?" After Grantham's experience students shy at expressing opinions against government.

The above flash was received Wednesday morning from British Columbia, and to all intents and purposes things are threatening to happen on the far west campus. Information received Thursday morning made the situation clear. The B.C. government in 1930 voted to the university a grant of $580,000.00. In 1931 circumstances forced the government to reduce the grant to $460,000.00. While this much of a cut has placed the university in a none too prosperous position, British Columbians learned with consternation that the proposed cut in the 1932 grant is to be forty-five per cent. of the 1931 grant, or fifty-eight per cent. of the original 1930 grant.

The result of this startling proposal is that President Klinck called a meeting of the Board of Governors, and a committee was appointed to consider the question of the reduced grant. If the Board of Governors has to accept this drastic reduction, it will proceed to allocate funds to the various departments as it sees fit. No official statement would be given to the papers, but rumors indicate that in order to make ends meet, either certain faculties and departments would have to be abolished, or else the third and fourth years and all research work would have to be done away with.

Loss of Profs Feared

Many students are wondering if they will be able to finish their courses, and where they will go to do so. With the two upper years done away with, almost forty per cent. of the students would be left stranded. Occasioning the university officials a great deal of worry is the possibility that many of the professors will leave

British Columbia. Only too often have excellent instructors left Canadian universities for higher salaries positions south of the line, and with a situation such as there is at the moment in B.C., it is feared that several first-class professors will leave.

Despite the suspension penalty that Ronald Grantham received last year for expressing his opinions a little too freely, many students have said what they think.

The following is a quotation that appeared in Thursday's issue of The Ubyssy: "I personally do not think that the government will make such a drastic cut, as it would entail one of two things. Either the two upper years would be abolished, or else certain of the faculties would have to be eliminated. This would put the university back twenty years, and can the government afford to cripple the university when it is a means of increasing the earning power of the people? The university is only getting ten per cent. of the Department of Education's expenditure as it is, and surely that is a small enough proportion for one of the province's greatest assets."

Dailies Rake Government

The Vancouver "Sun" takes vigorous objection to the government's proposed policy, and a scathing editorial presents their views. The following is an excerpt from the "Sun": "The present drastic, brutal and unjustified cut means that the university appropriations are cut by much more than fifty per cent. How can this Tolmie government, which has squandered the people's money right and left, have the colossal gall to even suggest that such a step be taken? The Tolmie government has failed notably and miserably to increase the earning power of the people of this province. Now, by these reductions, which will practically force the closing of the university, they are shutting off from the masses of this province the right and opportunity to increase their own earning power through education."

The British Columbia legislature meets in February and March, and further developments will probably not take place before then.

Inter-Varsity Debates Friday, U. of Brit. Columbia vs. Alberta

In Vancouver Art Bierwagen and John Maxwell Debate Nathan Nemetz and Dorothy Walker—At Home, Vic Gowan and Mark McLung Debate Kate Neatby and Sol. Kane

Tonight in Convocation Hall the Alberta debating team will meet the University of Saskatchewan debating team to decide the question, "Resolved that the civilization of the United States is a greater danger to the world than that of Russia." At the same time Alberta will be represented by another team in Vancouver debating on the same topic. In the men chosen for the teams Alberta is receiving first-class representation. It will not be from lack of trying or of ability if Alberta is unfortunate enough to lose.

The team representing Alberta in Vancouver consists of two well known debaters, both Sophomores, Art Bierwagen and John Maxwell. Mr. Bierwagen represented Alberta as a member of the home team last year. He aided materially in winning at that time. At is well known around the University. He was President of the Fresh Class last year. This year as a member of the executive of the Debating Club, as well as one of the most active and hard-working members of the Year Book Committee, he is at present president of the Parliamentary Forum at U.B.C.

At home Alberta is represented by two debaters new to inter- varsity debates, Mr. Victor Gowan and Mr. Mark McLung. Mr. Gowan, however, is well known in the open forum at the Debating Club. He is a graduate in Arts and at present is taking third year law. He is well known as an excellent "after-dinner" speaker as well as a member of the Dramatic Society.

Mr. McLung, though a Freshman, deserves the place he holds. He was the leading debater at the Calgary Normal School last year and was well known in high school. Mr. McLung was one of the leaders in an all-Freshmen debate held during the fall. In this debate he proved himself sufficiently good to obtain an appointment to the inter-varsity team. He is sure to do well.

From the east a strong team is coming to Alberta to represent the University of Saskatchewan. Miss Kate Neatby, B.A., and Mr. Sol. Kane are the members. Miss Neatby is at present taking post-graduate work at the U. of S. She has debated twice before in the McGoun series, once against B.C. and once against Manitoba. Saskatchewan has an excellent and experienced debater in Miss Neatby. Mr. Sol. Kane, the second member of the team, is a student in the College of Law. This is his first year at the U. of S., having been a student in the Faculty of Arts at the University of Manitoba, at which University he was a member of the inter-varsity debating team. If Saskatchewan is as good as the experience of her debaters indicates, Alberta debaters will have to be at their best.

TONIGHT'S DEBATER

VIC GOWAN

Mr. Gowan is a graduate in Arts, and is in third year law.

has become even more widely known and liked.

Mr. Maxwell, the second member of the team, is making his first appearance in inter-varsity debating. However, he has been a prominent member of the house debates. He is sure to do credit to the University. He was secretary of the Fresh Class last year as well as a prominent member of The Gateway staff. This year he is the Sports Editor of The Gateway. Mr. Maxwell is a student in Arts and Medicine, so that the University will not be losing one of its excellent debaters for some time.

The debaters representing U.B.C. at Vancouver against Alberta are Nathan Nemetz and Dorothy Walker. Mr. Nemetz is new to inter-varsity debating. He is Advertising Manager as well as Exchange Editor for The Ubyssy, the paper published by the University of B.C. Miss Walker, in her two years at Victoria College, was lead in the Players' Club. At the Victoria Normal School she was president of the Dramatic as well as of the Debating Club. Miss Walker

Manning Represents Alberta at N.F.C.U.S. Convention in Hamilton

World Disarmament Discussed—Student Problems a Feature of Convention—Proposed Intercollegiate Press Debated

By Pat O'Dwyer, of Saskatchewan Sheaf.

Special to Canadian University Newspapers.

McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 31.—Efforts to change the name of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union by prefixing the word "Central" to Canadian, will be made by the National Federation of Canadian University Students, it was decided at their conference which closed here today. J. A. Edmison, McGill delegate, is also a member of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, and he assured the conference that he would do his best to bring about the desired change.

Both McGill and Toronto delegates subscribed to the idea that such a change should be made, and western sportsmen will welcome the news. Although the University of Manitoba hockey club won the Allan Cup in 1928, a Central university team received the title of Canadian intercollegiate champions. Again, the University of British Columbia won the Dominion basketball championship in 1931, but despite this, an eastern varsity basketball club won the title of intercollegiate champions. This matter has been a sore point with eastern varsity sportsmen for many years, and if the federation should succeed in bringing about the name change, it will do much to relieve feeling on that score between east and west.

During the discussion of student problems, M. E. Manning, the Alberta delegate, enquired if political clubs existed amongst the undergraduates of any of the Canadian universities, explaining that as the University of Alberta is a provincial institution, there is some difficulty in that regard there. At Toronto, McGill, Western and other eastern universities political clubs are permitted among the student organizations. At Toronto the Macdonald-Cartier Club, the Liberal Club and a Labor Club thrive, and the same applies to McGill. The delegates seemed unanimously of the opinion that university students should be encouraged to take an interest in politics and public affairs.

It was decided, owing to the financial affairs of the Federation, that

SOPHOMORES HOLD EXECUTIVE MEETING

Ruling That Surplus Initiation Fees Be Returned to Fresh Class

The executive of the Sophomore Class met Wednesday, Jan. 13, at 4:40, in Med. 164. Hugh Arnold, president, occupied the chair. All members of the executive were present, viz., Norma Cameron, vice-pres.; Ernie Ayre, sec.-treas.; Bessie Clark, G. A. R. Mason, Delyle Boese.

A financial report given by Ernie Ayre showed that the financial condition of the class was very good.

At the instigation of Hugh Arnold, a motion was passed to the effect that it be made constitutional that each year surplus initiation funds be returned to the Fresh Class Executive rather than be retained by the Sophomore Class as heretofore.

It was decided that a class party be held toward the latter part of this month, arrangements to be made at the next executive meeting.

It was pointed out that the present enrolment of the Sophomore Class already exceeded the 80 mark, but that class fees were still to be collected from non-paid Sophomores whose pictures had been handed in for the Year Book.

Tuesday, Jan. 19, was set as the date of the next executive meeting.

the next annual conference should be held in 1933, and that continuity should be provided for by setting up a regional secretariat to attend to Federation problems during the non-conference year 1932.

Canadian university newspapers will try a press union experiment which the federation will sponsor. This union will benefit the daily publications in the east, but western weeklies will not benefit to the same extent.

During a strenuous three-day session, the federation delegates discussed every phase of student life, international, national and local. Outstanding matters on the agenda included debating, athletics, the students' exchange plan, and student problems and their solution.

Resolutions Passed by the Fourth Annual Meeting, N.F.C.U.S.

1.—International Student Service. That the National Federation go on record as being in sympathy with the works of the I.S.S., and where possible, accord its collaboration.

2.—World Disarmament Conference. That the National Federation record an expression of earnest desire

FRESH ELECTIONS RUN ON TUESDAY

Strong Executive Elected—Fred Watkins is President—Good Year Expected

With Ted Manning in the chair, the Freshman class met last Monday to hear their nominees give the election speeches. Mr. Chas. A. Perkins, alias Chuck, began the fireworks. Mr. Perkins was very eloquent and to the point. The main plank in his platform was bettering the finances of the Fresh Class. Much to the joy of his followers, he promised to see that the Fresh dance would be a howling success, if he were elected. Next to address the gathering was Harold Riley. And how he can think up remedies for depression, Ghandism, etc.! He was of the opinion, too, that Initiation should be continued, at least until next year! Praise goes to Freddie Watkins for his flattering remarks to the Freshettes—remarks that stole deeply into their defenceless hearts. He is an advocate of bigger and better Initiation, as an instrument in binding the friendship of the class.

Magdalena Polly became vice-president by acclamation. She fittingly thanked her supporters.

The speakers for the office of secretary-treasurer were brief. Among them were John Garrett, L. B. Kelly, and C. F. Prevey, the latter claiming the two necessary requisites—ability to use the English language and experience with handling the money.

The nominees for the Executive were also quite brief. Each promised loyal support to any undertakings upon which the class entered. The ladies were represented by Janet Atkin and Dorothy Graham, the gentlemen by S. Dineen, Camby Gillespie, Vic Meech and Ken Smith.

With such enthusiasm as the Freshmen exhibit it is reasonable to expect big things from Class '35. At any rate, an executive from the above shall surely launch them upon a very successful career.

With a good representative vote recorded at the elections Tuesday, the results were:

President: Fred Watkins.
Vice-President, by acclamation: Magdalena Polly.

Secretary-treasurer: L. B. Kelly.
Executive positions: Dorothy Graham, Vic Meech, Ken Smith.

NOTICE

HOT DISCUSSION RE SPRING PLAY

Suggestions Before Committee are: Shaw's St. Joan and his The Devil's Disciple; Dane's A Bill of Divorcement; two of Barry's, Holiday and You and I; and O'Neill's The First Man

Now that the Inter-year plays are but a distant memory, obscured by recollections of turkey and mornings that didn't begin at shriek of dawn, and that the Sophomores are again beginning to feel normal, after having won the coveted shield with their splendid performance, and duly broadcast the same (the performance, not the shield), those interested in things dramatic are turning to thoughts of the Spring Play. This is the University's annual major dramatic production, a three-act play chosen by the Dramat. Executive, directed by a professional director, and put on for two nights. This year it is to come off early in March, before the spectre of finals begins to stalk.

The choice of a play is always a serious matter. For the last two years, the Strange and the Supernatural have been dealt with very successfully in "The Adding Machine" and "Outward Bound," and we have a reputation which must be kept up. It seems to be the general opinion that this year we should keep our feet firmly on the ground and avoid the weird and abstract, and all masks, machines and Examiners, lest the point of satiety has been reached in the audience's taste.

We recall with pleasure Frederick Lonsdale's charming comedy, "Aren't We All," presented three years ago. These drawing-room comedies are always popular, but some people think they have perhaps been a little overworked by amateur dramatic organizations during the last few years.

Something which will not repeat in type these former plays must then be chosen. Something which the actors and audience will feel to be worth-while, and which at the same time will provide good entertainment. Several excellent plays have been suggested, and are being read for consideration. Among these are: "St. Joan," that wonderful but exceedingly difficult play by George Bernard Shaw, which Miss Julia Arthur, the splendid Canadian actress, presented on her tour a few years ago; "The Devil's Disciple," by the same author; "A Bill of Divorcement," the poignant tale of an heroic girl, by Clemence Dane; two plays by the clever young dramatist, Phillip Barry, "Holiday" and "You and I"; and Eugene O'Neill's "The First Man."

It is notably easier for actors to adapt themselves to characters in "straight" plays—plays concerning the types of people familiar to them, than it is for them to project themselves into the past. For this reason this type of play can be produced most successfully by them. It is to be hoped that this will be taken into consideration when the choice is made.

Meanwhile, the discussion will continue.

ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY PROPOSED

Meeting Held Last Night—Branch of Royal Astronomical Society May be Founded Here

A meeting was held on Thursday evening to discuss the possibility of forming a branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada in Edmonton.

Miss F. Fisher was appointed secretary for the meeting.

Dr. Campbell explained the purpose of the society. The Royal Astronomical Society was organized in 1908, with headquarters in Toronto, for the purpose of studying astronomy, astro-physics and kindred subjects. It publishes a journal ten times a year dealing with items of interest. At the end of the year a handbook is published giving information for the coming year to the amateur observer.

If a branch can be organized meetings will be held once a month for ten months, from October to May, to discuss topics of interest and to learn the fundamentals of the subject.

It was decided to appoint a committee, consisting of Miss Fisher, Dr. Campbell and Mr. Poole, to look into the possibility of forming a branch of the society and to call a meeting on Feb. 3rd, which is to take the form of a regular meeting of the society.

Anyone interested should attend.

ACTION SHOULD BE TAKEN

Within the last few weeks there have been several deplorable tragedies in Alberta caused by collisions at night between automobiles and horse-driven vehicles. In every case it has been admitted that had the wagon carried a light, the accident would in all probability have been avoided.

These occurrences impress on us the need of legislation requiring lights on all vehicles travelling on highways. It would be wise to make the law apply to bicycles as well as to horse-drawn vehicles, although the former is not of very great importance here, since the number of bicycles ridden at night on dark highways is negligible, and most of those who venture out on bicycles after dark carry a light because it would be almost suicidal to travel without one.

On the other hand, there is crying need for a provincial statute that would require a strong light, or two if it is found necessary, on all horse-drawn vehicles, with severe penalties for any infringement of the law. The drivers of heavy wagons and sleighs rarely, as far as we are aware, carry a light at present. Sometimes people driving buggies do, because in the event of collision they would in all probability be seriously injured, if not killed. When a heavy wagon is struck by a car, however, the victory usually goes to the former. In one of these accidents in December, Mr. Buckley, the member of parliament for Athabasca, was killed, and the driver of the car in which he was riding was seriously injured.

The premier has since made reference to the situation. He admitted that legislation on the matter would be desirable, but declared that it would probably be impossible to deal with the subject at the approaching session of the legislature. Three reasons were given, each of which is so flimsy as to be laughable. His first point was that the house would be engrossed with so many pressing questions that it would probably not have time to deal with the matter. We can hardly conceive how a great deal of time would be required to pass such a bill as is suggested—and besides, if this is not a pressing question, what is? The second reason advanced is weaker yet. The premier stated that such a law would be difficult to enforce because of the many sparsely settled districts where the police would not be able to arrest those who violated it. This is like saying that we should not have a speed law, because we do not catch everyone who break it. Doubtless some people would ignore the law, but they would be the exception rather than the rule, and would probably be people in some remote district where there are few cars anyway. In the thickly populated sections of the province, where more automobiles are found and more accidents are likely to occur, and there are more policemen to enforce the law, it would prevent most, if not all, of the nocturnal collisions between a car and a horse-drawn vehicle.

The last objection is that the cost to farmers would be more than they can bear. We never thought that the cost of an ordinary lantern was prohibitive. Another kind of light that might be considered is the red reflector of the type used on the highways in British Columbia and many of the states to warn motorists of a corner. These reflectors are very conspicuous, and would identify horse-drawn vehicles from everything else.

WELL PLAYED, CULBERTSON, OLD MAN

The battle of the century has now been won and lost. The two-forcing system has vanquished the official one-two-three method. A nervous and expectant public has spent three sleepless weeks anxiously awaiting the outcome of the critical struggle, hanging on to every development as the fortune of war smiled first on one side and then the other. The gold problem, the Sino-Japanese question and the trouble in India still have to be solved, but the momentous issue of the day is decided.

No doubt, some people are really anxious to know whether it is preferable to use two as a forcing bid, or three—but the great majority do not know one system from the other—and perhaps know nothing of either. Moreover, the contest has not decided which is the better. Lenz says that it is obvious from the result that his system is to be preferred—the first half of the series should not really count, because in the last 70 or 75 rubbers, when his conventions were not quered by Jacoby's psychic bids, he had a slight margin. Culbertson, on the other hand, triumphantly points to his 8,900 lead and to the fact that he and his partners had 26 less aces and only 34 more kings than the opposition. The series was most unsatisfactory from every standpoint except that of the daily newspapers. They scooped each night's play, wasting a lot of space on the sidelights, which were principally quarrels between the antagonists and occasionally between partners.

Doubtless the series was not "fixed," but at the same time it was turned into a farce. Obviously each of the two principals was eager to give to it as much publicity as possible, with an eye to the income he would derive from his newspaper articles. Neither played sporting bridge. Each was boastful at the beginning, and contemptuous of the other throughout. Culbertson pointed out flaws in Lenz's playing, and the latter reciprocated by comparing Culbertson to a simpleton. Throughout his descriptions of the game, Lenz attributed his success to his system; but when he was losing, it never occurred to him that it might

OWED TO THE O.T.C.

Now Einstein said a line's not straight;
And if you doubt that still,
Glance down a rank of the O.T.C.
When we are out to drill.

They fit us out with uniforms,
Which is the best of all,
For when the kit is not too big
It's sure to be too small.

When first the sergeant hollered "Fire,"
I got an awful thrill,
But there wasn't any fire at all;
'Twas just a part of the drill.

They took us round the other night
And marched us out of breath,
Till someone in the rear rank cried,
"Give me liberty or death."

"Who said that?" the captain cried,
With sudden anger seized;
"Patrick Henry, sir," I said,
But he wasn't even pleased.

I don't know what it's all about;
If they left the choice to me,
I'd sooner be in jail than in
The bloomin' O.T.C.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

A senior, staid and erudite
And dignified of mien,
Fell fast asleep, and thereupon
He dreamed himself a dream.

He dreamed he was a boy again,
Right joyfully he scampered.
O'er fences and o'er city dumps
By dignity unhampered.

Of Nudists cults he little knew;
Withal, he little cared,
Yet when he bathed, his stomach and Posterior were bared.

A pirate bold, he sailed a raft
O'er the Spanish Main of a creek.
—A watcher might have noticed then
Tears on that senior's cheek.

Across quiescent air there rang
A bell, whereon he woke.
He must dance that night; from a junior friend
He borrowed, and left him broke.

To the weekly hop he gaily went
Arrayed in a sophomore's shirt;
Moreover, round his virile neck
A freshman's scarf was girt.

A freshman's girl he calmly took
From her partner torn asunder;
But under his exotic spell
Her eyes grew wide with wonder.

And when that night his tie he doffed
He mused, "What fortunes mate us!
'Twere great to be a boy again;
But me for a senior's status."

be because of the virtues of the rival system. He laid the blame on bad luck, poor cards, or Jacoby's stupid psychic bids. Can anyone imagine a sportsman conducting himself in this manner? Or as Jacoby did in leaving the game when Lenz, his partner, criticized him for making a rash bid, after they had been losing steadily for some time.

From first to last the rules of common courtesy were ignored. Surely one can enter into contest of this nature without ceasing to be a gentleman. The conduct of these men does not bear comparison, for example, with that of Sir Thomas Lipton or Bobby Jones. Lipton tried on five occasions to recapture the America's Cup, emblematic of the world's yachting championship, from the U.S. He failed every time, but is regarded as probably the greatest sportsman of the age. Bobby Jones was in golf what Culbertson is in bridge. Jones is universally liked and admired for what he is, as well as respected for his actual ability.

It is regrettable that men of the mental calibre of Lenz and Culbertson, who could be a great asset to the game of bridge, have prostituted their skill as they have done, and we lose the respect which we would otherwise have for them.

DON'T DREGS DOWN (Getit?)

The Dramatic Society of the University has every right to claim a feather for its cap. We were pleasantly amused by a very sanctimonious and self-righteous write-up from that most unsanctimonious scandal-sheet "Hush," apropos of the broadcasting of the Sophomore play, "Dregs." The story, aside from numerous instances of misquoting, does nothing more or less than bear out our previous convictions, namely, that the publishers of the paper have failed dismally to avail themselves of the opportunities offered by our many and varied educational institutions.

We feel, that in justice to the author of the play, "Hush" might have quoted correctly. The impression that one would gather from reading "Hush's" revamped hodge-podge, would be that the play was nothing more or less than a blasphemous presentation of unspeakable sordidness. We admit the play presented an unpleasant side of life, and in an unpleasant manner, but contrary to the opinion of "Hush," there is not to be found in the whole play a single instance where the exclamation "God damn" is used, nor is mention made at any point of the drug morphine.

It is unfortunate in the extreme that "Hush" does not employ more care in its writing of captions. The article to which we are referring appeared under the heading "University of Alberta Rubbish." Does this paper which has only the best interests of the country at heart; which cannot stomach an occasional "damn" yet which serves up licentious lewd literature at every turn, feel that university players should confine their histrionic abilities to dramatized versions of "Alice in Wonderland"? Is it possible that "Hush's" scandal-mongers (we will not flatter them by calling them writers) are so hopelessly ignorant of drama that they do not appreciate the difficulties contingent to producing such a play as "Dregs," and uncharitably term it rubbish? Yet it must be so. And when we think of the number of people that will swallow the trash that "Hush" serves them, we cannot but regret the attitude taken by the small percentage of Canadians that purchase the above-mentioned publication.

We deplore "Hush's" too obvious attempt at retaliation, in which they have so miserably overstepped themselves, and left themselves open to ridicule. Apparently the editorial which we published some four or five issues ago has been a thorn in the flesh, and the scathing denunciation of "Dregs" is the comeback. We are forced to chuckle inwardly. Through that very attack, "Hush" has made itself so ridiculous that from now on it will be read in Edmonton simply as a dirty joke paper. Perhaps we flatter it when we suggest it was ever read otherwise. In substantiation of our retaliation theory, may we observe that four years ago a play entitled "The Dreamy Kid" was broadcast under similar circumstances. The play was written by Eugene O'Neill, and to those who know anything of drama (this, of course, excludes the reportorial staff of "Hush") the name will convey a very good idea of the high moral tone of the play. Did "Hush" make any objections to it? It did not. Only too obviously is their recent condemnation an attempted reprisal, and what a reprisal!

There is laughter and low magic in the sound,
There is trembling sweetness in the strings;
And I know that shadows almost lost
Will come again tonight to live in dreams.
I can hear the children calling in their play;
They are dancing in the lilt of the notes;
They are happy, for the music is their soul,
And their lives are only throbbing
gayness now.
There is sighing of the night time in a pensive touch of chords
That a coaxing hand sweeps softly
from the strings;
There is questing for a beauty that is over unseen hills,
And a longing after something yet unknown.
There is colour of a brilliancy that blinds until it hurts;
There is gleaming of the grey world's golden bands;
There is brightness—there is softness,
oh! so misty,
But my soul has learned the melody of stars.

A FRIENDLY CHAT FROM CAT TO CAT

By Ann Zatsat

We've found out that in internets it's quantity not quality that counts. We saw three of them going off to one case the other day.

Harry Lister is pleased to report that the fuel bill will be down quite a bit this January. We're heating by the hot-air system, and it is estimated that Friday's debate will be Arts for at least three days—not counting Sundays.

And then there's the Freshman who registered in Commerce so he could take book-keeping. He wanted to be a librarian.

This weather is the kind one goes out through, not out in.

House Eccers are deceptive creatures—some of them look so well fed and yet we've heard they eat their own products.

Some engineers blame their ruddy countenances on the weather, but others come right out and admit that they had a good time New Year's eve.

At last we've found out why there are canoes in the tuck at the rink—it's in case the ice melts in this weather. Also, we understand, the manager has a special indoor moon for such emergencies.

We have a bright idea to conquer the difficulty of the tough meat at St. Joe's—give out a knife sharpener with each dinner.

Be careful, darling! For all you know, co-eds may not be allowed to play pool in Tuck until after breakfast. Tsk! tsk!

If two full weeks of steady yawning and sleeplessness is any indication, everyone must have had a very merry Xmas.

Now that the Freshman class is organized, we would like to suggest to a few people that they join it—even if they do take Senior courses.

The only reason the Eskimos left Edmonton was because of the cold—and we don't mean the low temperature of the co-eds.

The Gateway's motto seems to be: one editor per issue. But now that there are co-editors at least two issues ought to come out under the same management.

The East was duly impressed, we hear, by the dignity of the West when the editor-in-chief of the Toronto Varsity walked in on one of The Gateway's chair fights, staging and scenery by two prominent students.

At last we've found a use for the Council, in fact, two uses:

1. To hunt for editors-in-chief for The Gateway, and
2. To play hide-and-seek with the disciplinary committee.

Anyway, the Varsity hockey teams take good pictures.

We have it on good authority that the girls have started up a soup kitchen in lower Wauneita for unemployed co-eds. Married students strictly prohibited.

We wouldn't mind them having a war in Manchuria so much if the names were only easy to spell.

That Med dance certainly presents a problem—how are we going to get a bid to it?

The person that we can't stand is the one who sobs because he only got 75. Serves him right! Every word of it!

One way of getting across to Med in good time is to use that trusty old ice boat we're so fond of.

We have a headache from looking at all those flashing Christmas ties. Please, can't something be done about it?

Sure, Santa Claus was good to us, but we are not so sure about those bill collectors.

Now we know what an also-ran is. It's the person with an 11:30 lecture who tried to get his lunch on time at St. Joe's.

Once there was a student who had never attended a "quarter show," but he died young anyway.

Meow! meow!

RETIRING EDITOR

NOEL ILES

Who, because unable to spare the time from his work, was obliged to resign as editor-in-chief of The Gateway. This resignation, which has ended an association with the paper of four and a half years, is deeply regretted by staff and readers alike. Noel has held almost every position on the paper from office boy to editor-in-chief, except that of women's editor, and for volume and quality of writing, has had few equals. Fortunately, although no longer an official member of the staff, Noel will not discontinue Gateway work altogether, but will continue to contribute to the paper as his time permits.

LECTURE GIVEN ON MODERN ART

Dr. James Adam Lectures Friday Night on "Modern Art in Canada"

Dr. James Adam on Friday evening will give a lecture on "Modern Art in Canada." This talk will be of great interest.

The lecture, illustrated by lantern slides, will deal with art in regard to the search for national expression, through its different branches; its encouragement, through the schools and exhibitions; and the development, as promoted by its pioneers in Canada. Particular mention will be given to the landscape art and the Canadian artists. The slides will show the different works, while the periods, subject, treatment, composition, and their relation to the general movement will also be depicted.

Students should not miss this opportunity afforded them on Friday evening.

RADIO COURSE IN FRENCH PHONETICS

CKUA Offering Two New Features—Broadcast Course in French by Prof. Allard

The programs to be presented by CKUA for the year 1932 promise to be better than ever.

Two outstanding educational features have been added to the regular schedule. Prof. H. Allard is offering a radio course in Elementary Practical French Phonetics on every Monday and Friday from 5:00 p.m.-5:30 p.m. This course began on Friday, January 8, and will continue until twenty-five lectures have been given. Mimeographed outlines of the course are being sent on request to those interested. Up to the present one thousand copies have been mailed to different points in Canada. This speaks well for the interest taken in the course.

The second new educational feature being offered this year is a school radio service, arranged by the Alberta Teachers' Alliance. The aim of this course of lectures is "to carry into the schools by way of the home radios, some educational values which would not otherwise reach them." The series of lectures will be given on each Wednesday from 5:00-5:30 p.m. by prominent teachers in Edmonton and Calgary high schools. The course will continue for six months. The Varsity Variety broadcast, which was presented by students last term, has been reorganized. Under the management of Mr. Roger Coughlin, Varsity talent will furnish the program once a month instead of once a week as before. The programs for the other three Fridays in each month will be arranged by the studio. This month Varsity Variety comes on the air at 7:15 Friday, Jan. 29.

Next week the U.F.A. convention will rule the air. CKUA will broadcast three sessions—two on Tuesday and one on Wednesday. On Tuesday afternoon radio listeners will hear the opening session of the U.F.A. convention. Tuesday evening Hon. J. S. Woodsworth, M.P. for Winnipeg, will give an address on "The Economic and Political Situation in Europe."

Wednesday evening Hon. J. E. Brownlee will give an address to the convention.

On Friday, Jan. 22, at 8 o'clock, a band concert will be presented by the C.O.T.C. band under Bandmaster Holeton, and by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. F. Stewart Dunn. This concert will be broadcast from the Red Cross Hut.

F.S. and B.S.

Saturday's fixture, while it didn't change the relative order of the teams in the Worm League, gave a lot of Worms plenty to wriggle around for. Bookworms and Earthworms tangled in the third ice feature in the Greenland Golf fixture. Period by period the game showed good generalship, the Bookworms running up a handsome batting average and then letting the Earthworms pull it down.

Dionne, the active Acadian, was the first to hole in, putting the little disc where Wood would like to have been, but wasn't. Cornish sank the works on Beach by a long shot from the blue line, Beach being unable to move the goal out of the way fast enough. Gentleman Jack put the Earthworms in the lead again just before the bell rang.

The order of scoring thereafter is a little uncertain, except that it is conceded by all concerned that the Bookworms undermined the Earthworms long enough to get a three-point lead, after which the Earthworms crawled up to a leading position before Webster, of dictionary fame, cleared the works off the ice.

Lineups for the game were: Earthworms — Beach, Thompson, Wray, Mooney, Dionne, Ward and Gentleman Jack McConnell.

Bookworms: Wood, Porteous, Cornish, McShane, Lowther, Souch and Riley.

Final (if any) score: Earthworms 7, Bookworms 6.

The Engineering Society heard some more about Trail and particularly about the treatment of lead there, when Carr Reikie addressed them Wednesday.

Mr. Reikie, who worked at Trail last summer, dealt with the electrolytic refining of lead in his paper. Trail is one of the world's largest producers of lead at the present time, handling the output of the famed Sullivan Mine at Kimberley as well as ore from many smaller mines.

The concentrated are smelted into crude "anodes" of impure lead to which has been added a quantity of antimony. These "anodes" go to the lead refinery, where they are arranged in batteries in the tanks containing a solution of hydrofluosilicic acid. Cathodes are made from pure lead, and the lead from the anodes is deposited onto these. Glue is added to the electrolyte, it being found that it aids in the deposition of the lead on the cathode. The cathodes are melted down and cast into ingots.

The addition of the antimony to the impure lead makes enough impurity that the slimes do not fall off the skeleton "anode." These slimes are removed and sent for treatment to the silver refinery. The bulk of the impurities are disposed off, and the silver and gold recovered. The antimony is re-used in the casting of new "anodes."

The plant is designed that it can turn out around 425 tons of lead in a day. Silver production at the same time would be in the order of a half ton.

Toronto Editor Visits Gateway Re Press Union

W. F. Payton, Editor-in-Chief of Toronto "Varsity," Endeavoring to Form Intercollegiate Press Union—Scheme Has Secured Support of N.F.C.U.S.

Varsity journalists got the low-down on how they do things in the east when F. W. Payton, editor-in-chief of the Toronto "Varsity," paid the University a visit last Saturday and Sunday. The object of Mr. Payton's tour this far west of his native habitat is to attempt to bind the Canadian university papers into a Canadian Intercollegiate Press Union. By doing this, the universities would be able to give each other the benefit of "news breaks" by means of an intercollegiate press wire, in much the same manner as does the Associated Press. Not only would news of other Canadian colleges creep into the various university publications, but all papers in this press union would benefit from special press wire rates.

Mr. Payton has organized a union between four of the eastern colleges, namely, Toronto, McGill, Queen's, and Western, and is president of this press union. He has found during the past year that the proposed arrangements work out very nicely, and he is at present interviewing the editorial staffs of all the western varsity news sheets, and he hopes by next year to have his chain established across Canada.

He feels that this has been a long apparent need, and that a year or two at most should see the Canadian universities' papers functioning smoothly in a coast to coast union. Admission to this union is to be had on application to the existing four members, but is only a constitutional formality, as Mr. Payton hastened to point out. It is expected that there will be a conference held every year, to which each member newspaper may send one voting delegate, and as many other non-voting delegates as it can afford. The convention will, of course, be held at as nearly central a spot as can be arranged.

Mr. Payton managed to cover the business of the press union with The Gateway officials in time to get to the basketball game in the evening, and Sunday afternoon Dr. McEachern very kindly held a tea for Mr. Payton in Assiniboia Hall. Mr. Payton left at 10:30 Sunday night to go on to Saskatoon and further the good work there. As he writes an article about each university that he visits, the staff of The Gateway are eagerly awaiting the copy of the "Varsity" in which he will tell of how he shot alligators and was treed by a grizzly while at the University of Alberta.

Travelling Scholarships Offered to Women by C.F.U.W.

Annual Scholarship of Value of $1250 Given by Canadian Federation of University Women to the qualifying Woman Graduate

A scholarship of the value of $1250 is offered yearly by the Canadian Federation of University Women, open to any woman holding a degree from a Canadian university. In general, preference is given to those candidates who have completed at least one or two years at graduate study and have a definite course of study or research work in view. The award is based on evidence of character and ability of the candidate and promise of success in the subjects to which she is devoting herself.

This scholarship has been in existence about eleven years. The university at which the successful candidate has pursued her study or research work has, up to the present time, been mainly an English or French university.

Two of the distinguished holders of this scholarship have been graduates of the University of Alberta, namely, Miss Dixie Pellet, scholar for 1922, and Miss Silver Dowling, scholar for 1923. Miss Pellet is an honors graduate of the Department of Botany of this university, and formerly assisted in the Department of Botany. She was awarded her Ph.D. degree at Bryn Mawr in 1927, and is now in the Department of Biology at Dalhousie.

Miss Dowling, with B.A. and M.A. from Alberta, studied at the Botany School, Cambridge. While at the University of Alberta she lectured in Botany. After her return from England she was appointed a Hudson's Bay Fellow at the University of Manitoba, where she worked on fungi. In May of this year she became a Doctor of Philosophy. At present Dr. Dowling is working in the Medical College at Winnipeg under the Banting Research Fund, on fungi parasitic on man—a work considered of great importance because of its bearing on skin diseases.

Full particulars of the conditions for this scholarship are to be found on the bulletin board outside the upper Wauneita room. It is important to notice that applications for this scholarship are to be in not later than February 1st.

VARSITY ORCHESTRA HIGH MEMBERSHIP

Steadily Increased for Nine Years
—Now Thirty-five Members

For the last nine years the University has been very fortunate in having Mrs. J. B. Carmichael to direct the Students' Orchestra. Mrs. Carmichael, who has kindly devoted so much of her time to conducting this group, has made possible a wonderful training for the members. The classical and operatic numbers practiced are of the original form in which they appear before the professional reader. The Orchestra has steadily grown, until this year it has a membership of thirty-five.

Last season the Orchestra took a prominent part at the Year Plays, and the Imperial Debate. It also presented the Bohemian Opera. Last month the University students were afforded the pleasure of hearing this Orchestra when it made its first appearance this season at the Inter-year Plays. In addition to this, it will take part at the Spring Plays, and possibly at one of the debates. They hope to put on another opera at a later date.

Anyone desiring to become a member is heartily welcomed by the president, Mr. John Harvey. The vice-president is Miss Phyllis Collier, and librarian, Mr. Forgan French.

ELECTRICAL CLUB HEARS J. HAWKINS

"Television" Was the Paper Delivered by J. Hawkins at the Meeting of Electrical Club

The Electrical Club, on the afternoon of Jan. 11, was addressed by Jim Hawkins on the subject of "Television." Jim first made clear the difference between telephotography, the indirect transmission of still pictures, and television, the transmission of actual images.

A general discussion of television methods was followed by descriptions of several different systems of transmission and reception, including those devised by Baird, Jenkins, Alexander and the Bell Telephone Co. The lecture was concluded by a few remarks on the cathode ray tube method, now in course of development.

Semi-Annual Meet. W.C.I.A.U. Held in Saskatoon on Jan. 4th

Alberta Represented by W. Meadows—Date Set for Alberta-Saskatchewan Swimming Meet

The semi-annual meeting of the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Union was held in Saskatoon on January 4, 1932, representatives from all four western universities being present. The first matter that was brought before the meeting was the question of a swimming meet between Alberta and Saskatchewan. A tentative date, February 27, was set for the meet. It was then decided that the 1932 track meet would be held in Saskatoon on Saturday, Oct. 15.

The next question to be discussed was the settling of the basketball championship. As B.C. was playing only one game with each prairie university and as the prairies were playing no other inter-varsity games, the following arrangement was agreed to: First: If B.C. wins the three games they hold the trophy.

Second: If B.C. wins only two games, the prairie team that defeats B.C. wins the trophy.

Third: If B.C. wins only one game or no games at all, then the team that makes the best percentage score against B.C. wins the trophy.

It was suggested that the matter of the W.C.I.A.U. obtaining permission to issue their own universal amateur cards be discussed at the next meeting.

The sixth annual meeting of the Western Intercollegiate Rugby Union was held in Saskatoon just before the W.C.I.A.U. semi-annual meeting. It was agreed that though the meeting still believed in the principle of permanent officials that for the time being members would appoint local officials to handle home games.

A discussion of rules then took place, and it was decided to extend the interference from the three-yard limit to five yards. The matter of kicking to the deadline was discussed at length, but it was finally decided not to suggest any changes, as it would tend to cut out rouges as well.

To make quite clear the regulations regarding the number of men that can be dressed for a game, it was decided that the maximum number of players dressed by the home team shall not exceed the number dressed by the visiting team, providing always that the home team has the right to dress eighteen men.

The matter of the home university entertaining visiting teams was discussed. It seemed to be the opinion of the delegates that, in most cases, the visiting teams would prefer not to be entertained with a dinner or banquet, but be free to do what they liked.

A discussion followed regarding the rugby schedule for next year. Two schedules were drawn up, as Manitoba could not make a final decision due to finances.

Schedule 1—
Sat., Oct. 8: B.C. at Sask.; Alta. at Man.
Mon., Oct. 10: B.C. at Man.; Alta. at Sask.

Sat., Oct. 15: B.C. at Alta.; Sask. at Man.; Track Meet at Sask.
Sat., Oct. 22: Man. at Alta.
Sat., Oct. 29: Man. at Sask.
Sat., Nov. 5: Sask. at Alta.

Schedule 2—
Sat., Oct. 8: B.C. at Alta.; Man. at Sask.
Mon., Oct. 10: B.C. at Sask.; Man. at Alta.

Sat., Oct. 15: Sask. at Man.; Track Meet at Sask.
Sat., Oct. 22: Alta. at Sask.
Sat., Oct. 29: Sask. at Alta.
Sat., Nov. 5: Alta. at Man.

The basis of figuring how the championship should be awarded under schedule one was then discussed. It was agreed that:
First: If B.C. win all three games they are declared champions.
Second: If B.C. loses two games they lose championship.

Third: If B.C. wins two games but do not defeat the prairie winner, they lose the championship.
Fourth: If B.C. wins two games and defeats the prairie winners, they must have a greater positive score against the other two prairie teams than the prairie winners have in their average from home games.

The basis of figuring the championship in Schedule 2 is to be the same as used in 1930.

SPORTING SLANTS

By C. J. J.

The B.C. basketball team was just a little too good for ours, but it was a great fight to the end, our boys staging a comeback that brought them within an ace of winning.

The game, particularly the first half, was not brilliant from a spectator's point of view. This no doubt was due to the type of game played by B.C. For those who would criticize this method, let me remind them that B.C. had already played four games that week, and were handicapped by the loss of their star forward, who was kept on the bench because of a Christmas test. Close checking in the second half, however, brightened things up.

Ad Donaldson put on a stellar display and was ably supported by Mert Keel, Bill Pullishy and Vi Woods. Buzz Fenerty put in some nice work.

The hockey team staged a great battle with Drumheller before going down to a last minute score, which really was not indicative of the play. The absence of Al Hall, stellar defence man, was a great handicap.

Playing against a team which outweighed them in every department, Varsity played a hard game. Guy Kinnear turned in a brilliant performance, his stick-handling and back-checking were a joy to watch. Don Gibson and Gardiner played a sound game at defence.

The ever-reliable "Dooley" Ross came through with another great game—that boy just pulls them out of the air. The goals that were scored on him were just about unstoppable. We hate to think what the score would have been without him.

RUSTLERS DEFEAT VARSITY GIRLS 7-0

Jasper Place Rustlers Now Occupy Top Position in League Standing

By virtue of their 7-0 victory over the Varsity girls' team the Jasper Place Rustlers displaced the Monarchs from the leadership of the Women's Senior Hockey League and grabbed that position for themselves. They had a distinct edge over the Varsity team in their battle last night at the Varsity rink. The Varsity girls put up a great fight, but were unable to turn back the whirlwind attack of the West Enders. The Tufford sisters were the big noises for the Rustlers, being a threat throughout the game. These girls are sure plenty good, and should cause the Monarchs a great deal of trouble. Margaret Moore and Mary Cogswell turned in a fine game for Varsity, but had tough luck around the goal-mouth.

INTERFAC. LEAGUE IS NOW UNDER WAY

Ags and Arts Tied for First Place—Meds and Engineers Trailing

Manager Frank Page's interfaculty hockey circuit is well under way now with five league games passed by the boards. The Ag-Com-Law-Pharm aggregation is tied for the top position with the Arts crowd. They have two wins to their credit, having downed the Engineers 6-1 and the Meds 3-2. They have suffered one defeat at the hands of the Arts team, losing out by the close score of 2-1. The Arts team has also defeated the Meds 1-0, having won two games in as many starts.

The Meds and Engineers now occupy the cellar position with one point each, by virtue of their 1-1 tie last week. The league promises to be a good one this year with the teams fairly well matched. The Arts team looks best, having defeated the Ags, with whom they are tied for first place. The Meds appear to be strong, having lost their two games by one-goal margins. The Engineers have so far been the weak sisters of the league, but they have some new material coming out and should be well up in the league standing at the end of the season.

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE ON ROCKS

Depression Has Necessitated the Curtailment of the Independent Hockey League

To accurately predict the exact loss to thousands of widows, orphans and even large financial concerns who have always preferred conservative investment in an apparently sound stock, the failure of the Independent Hockey League presents one of the greatest financial problems since the South Sea Bubble. The crash has been attributed to several factors.

(a) With the recent great losses sustained by Lloyds (the reference is of course to the Titanic and the Lusitania), they have been unable to pay the claims of the members of the league for the loss of arms, legs and teeth. As a result of this non-payment, the physical condition of the players quickly deteriorated, and the finances of the league with it.

(b) The great and ex-halted First Mogul King, one of our earliest settlers (3c on the dollar) last spring started on a pilgrimage into the southeast, looking for the North-West Mounted Police, and has not returned. His loss has been fatal to the league.

(c) It was found that the time required to be spent in directors' and committee meetings necessary to the management of such a stupendous company, has so cut in upon the sleeping hours of the members that games have become a secondary consideration, when the finances of the investors were at stake.

(d) Last, but not least, too many passes were issued to friends of the players, materially affecting the gate receipts.

All is not lost, however. There may be hope, with the fall of the gold standard, that it will soon be so low as to be within the reach of everyone. Another consideration must be kept in mind. The very essence of the Independent League—independence in everything, and the financial independence of the league, must come first.

After a thriving existence for four years, it would be too great a tragedy if the league were abolished altogether, and the directors have a plan whereby it will be possible to play one game a week, to the gratification of thousands of fans.

U.B.C. Cagers Win from Alberta But Manitoba Gets Rigby Trophy

Pi Campbell Stars for B.C.—Fenerty, Donaldson, Richard and Keel Are Good for Alberta as They Lose 28-22—Manitoba Gains Possession of Cup by Virtue of One-point Margin in Game Against U.B.C.

A colorless attack in the first period that gave them a six-point margin enabled the U.B.C. basketball team to defeat Alberta last Saturday night. The Dominion champions displayed an effective delayed offensive in the first half of the game and a stubborn defensive through the last frame. The large armories floor was undoubtedly an advantage for the visitors, who played with an uncanny precision throughout.

The Bears failed to rush the coast boys in the first period as they did in the last, and this failure to force them to open up probably lost Alberta the game. During the final period Alberta forced the play and was able to match score for score with the champions.

B.C. scored first when Campbell scored on a free shot, after being

Varsity Turned Back by Miners

Wainman Scores Twice for Miners—Kinnear Stars for Varsity

The Green and Gold sextette met their eighth defeat last Friday night when the Drumheller Miners turned them back to the tune of 5-1. Our boys showed very good form and fought hard, but the Miner defence was too much for them. Varsity was seriously handicapped by the loss of Al Hall, their star defence man, who is out of the game with a sore leg. Gardiner, who played here three years ago, filled in with Gibson on the defence, and gave the Miners plenty to think about.

Miners Rain Shots
The game opened with the Miners running through the Varsity defence almost at will, and it was not until the end of the first period that Varsity got organized and held them. Dooley Ross was kept plenty busy during this time. The two goals scored on him by Wainman and O'Brien could not be laid against him. Kinnear turned in some neat work in this period, but he was not given much support. The period ended with the Miners on the heavy end of a 2-0 score, and things looked black for Varsity.

The second period was a different story. Varsity pressed hard and carried the play into Miner territory time after time. Kinnear showed up well again, his brilliant skating and stick-handling carrying him close in on the Miners' citadel on many occasions. The heavy Miner defence and the masterly goal-tending of McNamara, however, were too much for him. Towards the close of the period, Varsity's efforts were rewarded, when Gardiner scored from a scramble in front of the Miner goal.

Third Period
The Miners came to life in the third period and play was fast. Varsity held them until the middle of the period, when Bill Wright and Anderson combined to put the Miners up 3-1. Soon after, Wainman came through alone and scored on a sizzling shot to the corner of the net. One minute later Anderson came through for the last goal of the evening to put the Miners in the lead 5-1.

Wainman, Anderson and Bill Wright, of last year's Varsity team, were the stars of the Miners, with Kinnear and Gibson standing out for Varsity.

The teams lined up as follows:
Varsity—Ross; Gibson, Gardiner; Kinnear, McConnell, King; Tollington, Willans, Boles, Klassen.

Drumheller—MacNamara; Wainman, Anderson, Buckman, Gustafson, Badger, W. Wright, O'Brien, N. Wright, Tretowd.

SCORING AVERAGES

Although Varsity players are not figuring in the scoring averages like they did last year, Al Hall is right up there with the leaders. Al is fourth in the general standing and leads the league in actual goals scored. Walker and Crossland of the Superiors are tied with Kennedy of the Forty-ninth for the lead. Jimmy Graham of the Soops, perennial leader of the scoring parade, is tied with Hall with six points.

The players who have scored two points or more to date follow:

	P.	G.	A.	Ps.
Kennedy, 49th	7	4	2	7
Walker, Sups	9	5	2	7
Crossland, Sups	9	2	5	7

the Drumheller Miners when Al Hall was sick.

Varsity intermediates found their feet after the holidays when they held the powerful and rugged MacDonnell Miners to a tie at the Arena on Monday night. The two teams were evenly matched, which says a lot for the chances of the students when they have a few more practices under their belts.

Crucikshanks, Austin and Gordon were the bright shining lights for the Varsity Cubs, with Austin getting one of the goals scored. Misquelin got the other. Both of the Varsity goals were scored in the second period.

The lineups:
Varsity: Anderson, Burgess, McElroy, Crucikshanks, Cook, Austin, Cornett, Micquelin, Gordon and Roper.
Miners: Cameron, Brown, Farris, Colville, Harris, McDougall, Melnyk, McDonnell, Warwaushinski, S. Samis and B. Samis.

(With Apology to H. G. Wells)

About two months ago, while experimenting with a new radio set in his laboratory, he had suddenly and unexpectedly come across some strange words which flashed upon his auditory field in a most peculiar way, resembling the change in volume and pitch of the siren of a passing engine. He had been searching for the call of the "Arabian Nights" when all at once this avalanche of hissing and hooting broke in. It was far below the ordinary wave length limit, and as he tried to attune, he thought that behind all these strange noises which were quite different from the ordinary interferences, he could hear the insistent repetition of the words, "Professor Sleight speaking—Professor Sleight speaking." A very careful, functional reattunement confirmed his suspicion that his call, whether it came from, was genuine. A few moments only had he been able to hear distinctly, as it had been caught what was, however, but were, between the con-

Since then may I add by way of interest that my wife and I, in hunting for a suitable name for our last child, have decided to call it Ameoba Diastole Plasmolized—a slight compliment to my redoubtable friend Dr. Squinter.

He had one arm upon the wheel
In a car that was his pride.
His other arm was wrapped around
The honey by his side.
A policeman yelled, "Use both your

"Where do you think you are?"
"I can't," that loving swain replied,
"I have to steer the car!"

N.F.C.U.S. CONVENTION

that the forthcoming disarmament conference to be held at Geneva in February, 1932, may succeed in attaining its objective of securing a material reduction of the burden of the world disarmaments as is practically possible; and record further an expression of strong sympathy and support for every effort made by the Canadian Government and its representatives in securing this end. (This resolution is to be sent to Premier Bennett.)

3—Travel Commission.

(1) That this meeting, while being heartily in favor of the work and opportunities for the Federation in this field, go on record as desiring no European tour to be sponsored by the Federation in 1932 in view of existing economic conditions.

(2) That the officers investigate the possibility of inter-sectional tours in Canada.

4—Reduced Railway Fares.

That the incoming Executive makes a detailed survey of the whole question of reduced railway rates to students, including the following aspects: Athletic teams, annual meeting, exchange of undergraduates plan, extension to stop-over privileges at holiday seasons, and the question of a general reduction to students, qua students.

5—Athletics.

(1) That the officers negotiate with the G. Spalding & Co., Limited, with a view of improving certain phases of the co-operative purchasing arrangement now in existence.

(2) That this meeting go on record as recommending to the C.I.A.U. that its name be changed so as to indicate more clearly the particular part of Canada it represents.

(3) That the officers follow up the results of the meeting of representatives of the three intercollegiate unions (which was promoted by the expense of and by the N.F.C.U.S.).

6—Exchange of Undergraduates Plan and Scholarships.

(1) That the isolated cases in which complete approval has not been received should take the necessary steps at once.

(2) That this meeting heartily endorses the Inter-commonwealth exchange of students which is at present being fostered through certain universities in the territory concerned.

(3) That the officers inquire into the possibility of obtaining grants from the Governments of Canada toward establishing scholarships in Canada for graduates and undergraduates of Canadian universities.

7—International Confederation of Students.

That Canada withdraw from the C.I.E.

8—Debating.

(1) That this conference favors the appointment of a Standing Committee on debating, to be appointed by the incoming executive, and to consist of members well versed in all debating problems.

(2) That this conference strongly favors the sponsoring of international debates—and recommends that the Federation negotiate the sending of teams to Porto Rico, the British Isles, and the United States.

(3) That this conference recommends that arrangements be made to have a British debating team tour Canada during the fall of 1932.

(4) That this conference recommends that in the months of January or February, 1932, a women's debating team or teams tour Canada, meeting teams irrespective of sex.

(5) That this conference believes that it would not be opportune to draw up a further schedule at this time in view of the expressed doubts of the delegates from six universities whether two N.F.C.U.S. debates in a year would be successful.

(6) That this conference notes the decline in popularity of the formal debate, and recommends that the Federation, through its committee referred to above, thoroughly investigate the various systems of debating used in Canada, and endeavor to arrive at some standardization of rules and procedure.

9—Initiation.

That this body views with favor the decline of physical hazing as part of the initiation ceremony at Canadian universities.

10—Canadian Intercollegiate Press Association.

(1) That this meeting go on record as being in accord with the objects of this association.

(2) That the officers of the Federation be empowered to negotiate with the Association and arrange for such reciprocal co-ordination as may be deemed to be mutually advantageous.

11—Constitution and Finances of the N.F.C.U.S.

(1) That owing to the impossibility of the N.F.C.U.S. being able to meet annually on basis of present levy, that there be no further meeting of the Executive Council until December, 1933.

(2) That three officers (in their respective sections) make a visit to each university within their section meeting the local Council, and so arrange their visitations so as to converge at a central point for a meeting in the latter part of October or early in November, 1932.

(3) That the officers prosecute the Endowment Fund campaign as soon as conditions permit.

12—Summer Work of Students.

That this body condemns the practice of non-university students and foreign students representing themselves as Canadian university students in soliciting magazine subscriptions in Canada (resolution to be sent to selected publishers).

13—Professional Coaches.

That the Federation recommends that there be no introduction of a system of payment of coaches by any sources other than through the channels under the control of the regular Athletic Board (copy to be sent to the W.C.I.A.U., C.I.A.U., and M.I.A.U.).

14—Promoting Continuity of Work.

That each delegate in attendance upon returning to his university should take steps, where necessary, to see that continuity in the work of the Federation is preserved.

15—Co-ordination of Student Interests and Faculty.

That the Federation ask permission of the Canadian University Presidents Association to send a Federation delegate to attend their meetings.

Student Problems Discussed.

The following items were under discussion:

(1) Inter-dependence of men and women student councils (where both exist).

(2) National advertising bureau for student publications.

LEADS DEBATING TEAM

ART BIERWAGEN

Mr. Bierwagen represented Alberta's home team last year, and is this year a member of the Debating Executive.

(3) Relations between newspaper editorial staff and students' council.

(4) Conflict in schedule dates.

(5) Relations between permanent secretary and students' council.

(6) Medical services, athletic insurance, sickness and accident insurance for student during the term.

(7) Professional coaches and athletic directors.

(8) Formation of political clubs within the university.

(9) Student discipline.

(10) Relations between students' council and students' union.

(11) Student loan funds; abatement of tuition fees in graduating year.

(12) Student employment agencies.

(13) Interfaculty sport.

(14) Initiation.

(15) Relations between faculty and student societies.

(16) Compulsory attendance at lectures.

(17) Student financing of rinks, stadiums, gymnasiums.

(18) Liability of student societies for destruction of public and private property.

(19) Student officials (paid).

(20) Custody and care of athletic equipment.

Memorandum

This budget was approved by the annual meeting, and should be submitted to each local Students' Council for ratification.

The Secretary of the Federation should be promptly notified of your decision.

Percy G. Davies, secretary-treasurer, N.F.C.U.S.:

"I am looking forward to a very active year. We have a very strong executive and a very extensive field."

"The meeting just closed was one of the best attended. Since the inception of the organization five years ago never were our discussions so keen and extensive."

"Last year we arranged the transference of thirty federation scholars between different universities of the Dominion under the exchange of undergraduates plan and we expect in 1932 to have at least fifty."

"With such a large group of selected students representing as they do the cream of university life, moving from one section of the Dominion to another, where they attend at a sister university, in the course of time, cannot help but ultimately prove to be a substantial factor in the welding together of this geographical inaccuracy which we call Canada."

M. E. Manning, Alberta delegate and president of the U. of A. Students' Union:

"An exchange of opinions on questions which concern all students is naturally of value. The conference tended to solidify Canadian national feeling among the delegates, and that feeling will naturally be carried back by them to their own universities. Rather the spirit engendered than anything else is of value. It was enjoyable and interesting and valuable, particularly as far as individual delegates were concerned."

Marguerite Clark, President, Faculty of Household Science, Toronto University:

"The reason the girls came up was that we felt that by so many of us gathering here we could help to give publicity to the federation and spread enthusiasm. It has proved invaluable. I have been amazed at the enthusiasm of the members."

STUDENTS' COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES

when on Christmas eve he spoke over the mike, giving Christmas wishes, etc., he looked like a different person altogether. (Radio fans will understand what I mean when I refer to what a person "looks" like over the radio.) Whatever he is, he certainly sounds great. He sings deep and low down, and has a peculiar but indescribable trick of singing that goes over big. He has also an odd accent when he sings (for instance, he pronounces "lord" something like "low-ard") that is very effective. He sings such songs as "River Stay 'Way from My Door" and "Sleepy Time Down South" with a pathetic touch, not by slobbering over them as so many would-be-sad singers do, but by singing them almost half humorously, which somehow seems to deepen the pathos.

As yet, however, I think he is even better when he sings such humorous songs as "Concentratin' on You" and Eddie Cantor's song (which Phil sings just as well, if not better), "There's Nothing too Good for My Baby," or

Blood Poisoning Causes Death of Dr. H. M. Vango

Died at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 29—Sustained Slight Injury to Hand While Performing Post-mortem—Poisoning Set in With Fatal Results

Victim of his science, Dr. Harold M. Vango, 36, professor of medical jurisprudence, and assistant pathologist of the University of Alberta, died at the University Hospital at 8:45 a.m., Tuesday, December 29.

His death was due to blood poisoning which may have resulted from a slight injury to his hand while he was engaged in making one of his numerous post-mortem examinations. The poison travelled up his right arm and entered the body.

At Consort, on Dec. 17, where he went to give evidence at the inquest on the body of H. C. Larsen, who was murdered, Dr. Vango became ill and was rushed back to Edmonton, entering the University Hospital two days later. It is thought that the poison may have been contracted while making a post-mortem on Larsen. From a tiny sore on his right thumb, the poison spread slowly, despite every medical effort to stem its advance.

Dr. Vango was himself a student of the University, entering in 1915. In 1916 he joined the army, and was attached to the Medical Corps in the 3rd Battalion at Sarcee Camp, near Calgary. In 1918 Dr. Vango returned to resume his studies.

As early as the age of 15, Dr. Vango was a keen student of all things medical, especially pathology, the science of diseases. The pathology department of St. Thomas' Hospital, London, was the scene of his earliest labors. He came to Canada in 1913, and to Edmonton in 1914. His studies in medicine at the University were interrupted while he served his country during the war. His work here was continued for a time; then he went to McGill, where he graduated in medicine.

On his return to Edmonton, Dr. Vango was appointed assistant pathologist at the University. In 1925 his awakened interest in medical jurisprudence and the scientific detection of crime led him to go to Vienna in the summer of 1927. There he obtained enough aid to enable him to carry on here till 1929, when the need for further study became pressing. So, in 1929, he spent the summer at the University of Edinburgh, following up his earlier studies in medical jurisprudence.

Dr. Vango, being a captain of the 33rd Field Ambulance Corps, was buried with full military honors on Thursday, Dec. 31. A contingent of the C.O.T.C. attended, as well as officers of various military units in the city.

It will probably never be known how great was Dr. Vango's value not only to the University, but more particularly to the city and provincial police forces. His great fund of knowledge of crime and its methods marked him out as one of the most outstanding men in that line in Canada. His passing is regretted by all who knew him and worked with him—students, professors and police.

Dr. Vango was married, Mrs. Vango being the former Miss Ethelwyn Little, who, prior to her marriage, was in charge of the operating room staff at the University Hospital.

Besides his widow, Dr. Vango leaves two daughters, one three years old and the other one year.

FICTION PRIZE FOR STUDENTS

Stories to be Handed in to Gateway Office—Prize of Twenty-five Dollars Offered

Students and other inmates of the University who have long aspired to garnering in shekels by means of the flowing pen are about to have their chance! Mr. W. C. Bradburn, owner of Bradburn's Limited, a well known Edmonton publishing company, has offered a prize of $25.00 for the best short story written by a student at the University of Alberta. Mr. Bradburn has been for some time publishing a magazine known as "The Railway News," and he now proposes to combine it with "The Capital," and publish the larger magazine known as "The Capital and Railway News."

In order to appeal to a wider public, Mr. Bradburn has decided to have university talent supply him every month with a short story of about 6,000 words, and for the best one submitted, he will pay $25.00, which is certainly an award worth aiming at. The stories are to be fiction, and must be turned in to The Gateway office not later than 4:30 January 23rd. It is not essential that they be typed, but it would be vastly preferred. In order to insure absolute impartiality, the names of the contestants (which should be typed on a blank sheet and turned in with the manuscript) will be kept secret, and the judge will see only a number.

Here's your chance—all you who are budding or perhaps full-blown authors and authoresses! Write a yarn about that interesting person—you know the one we mean—that you met during the holidays; or about the village mystery; or about that something which hasn't happened yet, but for which you're still hoping.
